'De Aki a Ketama' was recorded live at the Cinearte Studios in Madrid on March 28th and 29th, 1995. This album marked a new era on the career of this band formed by two brothers and a cousin brought up in Madrid who belong to an Andalusian family with a very strong flamenco background. In this album Ketama did an amazing job of exploring unorthodox rhythmic patterns and meters. They had the collaboration of people like Potito, Chonchi Heredia, Antonio Canales, Aurora and Antonio Flores. If you like flamenco, put this album straight away in your shopping list, you'll love it. They have a great live sound, and guitar playing is at a very high level if you appreciate this instrument. Most of the compositions are delicate and elaborated. This is a CD to enjoy flamenco music at its best.
