SYNOPSIS:

After "Flamenco" (1995) and "Tango" (1998) - nominated to the Oscar for best foreign movie -, Carlos Saura completes, in 2005, this trilogy of the urban and modern song with "Fados". After more than two years of investigation about the Fado, Carlos Saura takes an important step to the musical sort. For the previous musicals, Iberia, Flamenco and Tango.. Carlos Saura refered on the dance, but on fados he makes a real effort on the arguments and on the frames that reflect the birth of the vulgar and dock music, a synthetis of all the music born at the end of the XIX. Century.
