The Thousand and One Nights was the first Flamenco musical taken to stage and even then, going ahead of our time, methods in 3D and 2D in motion were used, creating a unique virtual set.

The Thousand and One Nights, is a flamenco classic, not only for its contents and the difficulty to stage a very famous play worldwide, but also because the artistic quality in all its aspects, touch, singing and dance, as well as all the people that took part in this creation, Tito Losada, Sergio Cabrera, Antonio Canales, Guadiana and the big Enrique Morente who collaborated in one of the tracks of the CD, make this DVD and CD unique and probably unrepeatable in the history of flamenco musicals.

Synopsis

Once upon a time there was a king who was loved by his workers for his fairness. His name was Sahriyar. His brother, Sah Zahmán, was the king of Samarcanda. After a long time apart from each other, Sah Zahmaán decides to visit his brother. One day, while his brother was hunting in the woods, Sah Zahmán finds out his sister-in-law participating in an orgy with some slaves and virgins in the palace gardens. Amazed, he decides to let his brother know. Sahriyar, furious to find out he has been cheated, decides to decapitate the virgins and the slaves...
